Dust Storm Disaster

On the 14th day of April of 1935,
There struck the worst of dust storms that ever filled the sky.
You could see that dust storm comin', the cloud looked deathlike black,
And through our mighty nation, it left a dreadful track....

The storm took place at sundown, it lasted through the night,
When we looked out next morning, we saw a terrible sight.
We saw outside our window where wheat fields they had grown
Was now a rippling ocean of dust the wind had blown.

It covered up our fences, it covered up our barns,
It covered up our tractors in the wild and dusty storm.
We loaded our jalopies and piled our families in,
We rattled down that highway to never come back again.

Theme: Foreign Policy — National Interests

Throughout the history of the United States, the primary goal of its foreign policy has been to protect the nation's interests. The United States has taken military and economic foreign policy actions to achieve that goal. These actions have resulted in varying degrees of success.

Task:

- Describe the historical circumstances that led to the action
- Discuss the extent to which this action was successful in protecting the national interests

You may use any military and/or economic foreign policy action taken by the United States to protect its national interests. Some suggestions you might wish to consider include fighting the Mexican-American War (1846–1848), declaring war on Spain (1898), implementing the Open Door Policy (1899), building the Panama Canal (1904–1914), carrying out the Marshall Plan (1947–1952), confronting the Soviets during the Cuban missile crisis (1962), fighting the Vietnam War (1964–1973), and fighting the Persian Gulf War (1990–1991).

You are not limited to these suggestions.

Do not write about the Confederacy during the Civil War as one of your examples.

Guidelines:

In your essay, be sure to:

- Develop all aspects of the task

Missouri Compromise of 1820

Document 1b

... After the Missouri crisis it was no longer possible to pretend that the United States was a single nation with a single set of national interests. Although politicians in both North and South worked hard over the next two decades to suppress the issue of slavery in the national debate lest it drive a deeper wedge between the northern and southern wings of both national parties, the society of slaveholders would henceforth be in conflict with the society of free labor...

Chief Justice Roger Taney wrote the majority opinion in the Dred Scott case.

... Taney's decision, which represented the entire Court, not only affirmed the repeal of the Missouri Compromise that had been achieved by the Kansas-Nebraska Act but also challenged the concept of popular sovereignty in any Western territory. As Southern Senator John C. Calhoun had argued, Taney stated that any move to block the rights of slaveholders to own slaves in a territory violated the due process clause of the Fifth Amendment. Supporters of slavery rejoiced at the decision, while those opposed to the expansion of slavery saw Taney's work as further evidence that national politics was firmly under the control of Southern apologists [defenders of slavery]. In the end, the Dred Scott case only fueled the already growing flames of sectional mistrust...

This is an excerpt from a speech by Frederick Douglass in which he analyzed and criticized the Supreme Court's Dred Scott decision.

... This infamous [Dred Scott] decision of the Slaveholding wing of the Supreme Court maintains that slaves are within the contemplation [meaning] of the Constitution of the United States, property; that slaves are property in the same sense that horses, sheep, and swine are property; that the old doctrine that slavery is a creature of local law is false; that the right of the slaveholder to his slave does not depend upon the local law, but is secured wherever the Constitution of the United States extends; that Congress has no right to prohibit slavery anywhere; that slavery may go in safety anywhere under the star-spangled banner; that colored persons of African descent have no rights that white men are bound to respect; that colored men of African descent are not and cannot be citizens of the United States....

... The third story [of Dred Scott] is about the politics of slavery and the coming of the Civil War. The Supreme Court decision sparked enormous political reaction, particularly in the North. It destroyed any chance of agreement between the North and the South over slavery in the territories. It would be an exaggeration to say that the Dred Scott decision caused the Civil War. But it certainly pushed the nation far closer to that war. The decision played a decisive role in the emergence of Abraham Lincoln as the Republican Party's presidential candidate in 1860 and his election later that year. That in turn set the stage for secession and civil war...

This is an excerpt from an article written by Booker T. Washington in response to the decision in Plessy v. Ferguson.

... Now the point of all this article is not to make a complaint against the white man or the “Jim Crow Car” law, but it is simply to say that such an unjust law injures the white man, and inconveniences the negro [African American]. No race can wrong another race simply because it has the power to do so, without being permanently injured in morals, and its ideas of justice. The negro can endure the temporary inconvenience, but the injury to the white man is permanent. It is the one who inflicts the wrong that is hurt, rather than the one on whom the wrong is inflicted. It is for the white man to save himself from this degradation that I plead.

If a white man steals a negro’s ballot, it is the white man who is permanently injured. Physical death comes to the negro lynched—death of the morals—death of the soul—comes to the white man who perpetrates the lynching....

This letter was sent by the Topeka, Kansas, chapter of the NAACP to the national organization.

Legal Department
20 West 40th
New York City 18, New York

Gentlemen:

I represent the legal branch of N.A.A.C.P., of Topeka, Kansas, and I wish to inform your office of the pending controversy existing in the city of Topeka, and elsewhere in the state of Kansas.

The facts are briefly these: The Board of Education of the aforesaid city is maintaining and has maintained a dual system of education for colored and white grade school children. In doing so, the Board is acting under a permissive statute of the state of Kansas.

The white children have several districts; in these districts, some colored children live, and their parents own property in these so-called districts. However, said colored children are prohibited from attending the schools in these districts, and are compelled to leave their home and meet a bus (said bus is provided by the Board of Education) that carries them, often for long distances, to the various Negro schools.

The parents of the said Negro children are taxed for all of the schools, and the whole thing results in a jim-crow system. . . .

Very truly yours
Chas. E. Bledsoe

What other movements, campaigns or causes did Brown v. Board aid or inspire?

Mike Wenger: The Brown decision, in my opinion, launched the struggle of African Americans over the next decade and one-half for their constitutional rights.

That struggle inspired a number of other movements, including the movement for Mexican farm workers rights led by Cesar Chavez, who formed the United Farm Workers in 1962.

The movements for equal rights for women and for the rights of disabled citizens also can be traced to the civil rights struggles of African Americans, and therefore, to the Brown decision.
