How We Use Glass

by Chris Oxlade

Glass and Its Properties

- 1 All the things we use at home, school, and work are made from materials. Glass is a material. It can be used for all sorts of different jobs. For example, we make ornaments from glass, we cover buildings with glass, and a type of glass even carries our emails around the world.
- 2 Properties tell us what a material is like. Glass can be transparent, which means light goes through it. This is a property of glass. Glass can also be clear or colored. It has a very smooth surface. It is hard but it is also brittle, which means it breaks before it bends. Air and water cannot flow through glass and neither can electricity.

Where Does Glass Come From?

Glass is not a natural material. It is made in factories. But the raw materials for glass are natural. They come from the ground. The main raw material is sand, the same as the sand on a beach. There are different kinds of glass. To make each different kind, different chemicals are added to the sand. Most glass is soda glass. It is made from sand, limestone, and a chemical called soda ash.

Making glass

At a glass factory the ingredients are mixed together and poured into a huge tank. The glass mixture is heated to about 2,732° F (1,500° C), which is many times hotter than the temperature in a kitchen oven. The sand melts and mixes with the other ingredients. This makes hot, liquid glass.

Glass Windows

5 Most of the glass made in factories is used in windows. Glass is a good material for making windows because it is transparent, waterproof, and airtight. So a glass window lets light in, but it keeps out wind and rain. It also keeps warm air in, stopping a room from getting cold. Glass used in windows is called glazing.

Making window glass

6 Windows are made from a type of glass called float glass. To make float glass, melted glass is poured into a huge bath of a molten metal called tin. The glass spreads out on top of the tin to make a flat, thin sheet. The sheet is cooled very slowly, which keeps it from cracking.

Iten = melted by heat

How does paragraph 3 connect to paragraph 4 of "How We Use Glass"? Use two details from the passage to support your response.

Possible Exemplary Response:

Together these two paragraphs explain how we get glass. First, in paragraph 3, the author lists the ingredients for glass like sand and limestone. Then, in paragraph 4, the author describes how glass is made by mixing and heating those ingredients. There are a lot of steps involved in getting glass to the point where we can use it in our daily lives.

The Great Horned Owl

by Shirley Anne Ramaley

- 1 There's a call in the air. "Whooo, hoo-hoo, hoo, hoo." It almost sounds like, "Who's awake, me too." There is only one bird that sounds like this—the great horned owl. It can be heard about anywhere, because these owls live in mountain forests, desert canyons, city parks, and even on some rooftops of homes. They are very widespread and adapt easily to many environments. They live all over North America, Central America, and certain regions of South America.
- 2 Great horned owls hunt just about anything that's not too big for them. They like insects and scorpions, great blue herons, snakes, jackrabbits, mice, other birds, and lots more. They also like cats, so keep your cat inside. Another delicious meal for a great horned owl is a skunk! The world is just one big smorgasbord for this big owl.

smorgasbord = meal with many foods

- 3 Its wing span can reach five feet—that's the size of many shorter adults! There are no predators that hunt this owl. It is the great horned owl that is the top predator.
- When it hunts, it likes to sit and wait. It can hear the smallest sound, like the squeak of a tiny mouse from far away. Its excellent vision in low light makes it the perfect night hunter.
- 5 Like all raptors, or birds of prey, great horned owls use their feet instead of their beaks to capture prey. They have powerful feet with curved, sharp talons. The hooked beak is for cutting and tearing meat. Not much gets away from this big bird!
- 6 They are the only owls with ear tufts. Scientists disagree on why they have them, but it is a very interesting feature. Some people say the owl lowers the ear tufts like a dog when it's upset. If you see one, take a good look at the ear tufts. Maybe it will let you know what it thinks of you.
- 7 Their ears are offset, and not even like those of people and most other animals. This means their ears are slightly tilted in different directions. They are able to determine something's location and establish the distance between two points. The owl tilts its head until the sound is equal in both ears. This pinpoints the direction and distance of the sound of the possible prey.
- A common belief is that an owl can turn its head completely around. Actually, while it can rotate its head 270 degrees, it can't turn completely around. (If it could, that would be 360 degrees.) Unlike our eyes, owls' eyes are fixed in their sockets. They can't move their eyes up and down. Instead, they move their entire head.

360 degrees = a full circle

- 9 The eyes are really big. If a great horned owl was as tall as a human, the eyes would be as big as oranges!
- 10 The owl has something else that helps it hunt. Its flight is silent. The feathers are soft, like fleece. This deadens the sound as air rushes over the wings while the owl is in flight. At night, as the owl flies silently toward its prey, the prey animal has no idea it's in danger.

- 11 The owls nest in January and raise their families in winter. The female sits on the eggs, and the male brings her food. The eggs take about a month to hatch. For a while, the babies, or "owlets," huddle under the mother's wings. Gradually, the little heads will peek out and eventually move out from under their mother's wings. Both parents closely guard the owlets.
- 12 The owlets start walking around the nest in about another month, often crowding each other. The parents usually sit nearby, perhaps in a tree branch, and guard the nest. Don't ever go near a great horned nest. Those parents won't like it, and they aren't afraid to attack anything that threatens the family.
- 13 The parents bring food to the nest to feed the owlets. Soon the owlets begin to flap their wings, getting ready for the day when they fledge, or fly away from the nest. The closer they get to fledging, the more they practice flapping their wings. When they are about six weeks old, it's time to go. They don't all leave at the same time, but usually within a few days of each other.

At six weeks old, owlets start walking outside the nest. They are able to fly well when they reach nine to ten weeks old.

Possible Exemplary Response:

The picture supports the information in the passage by showing the body features of the great horned owl. The picture shows the owl's sharp beak. Paragraph 5 states "The hooked beak is for cutting and tearing meat." The picture also shows the owl's big eyes compared to the size of its body. According to paragraph 9, "The eyes are really big. If a great horned owl was as tall as a human, the eyes would be as big as oranges!" The owl's features must make it seem very threatening to smaller animals.

EXEMPLARY RESPONSE

In "The Great Horned Owl," how are the ideas in paragraphs 4 and 10 related? Use two details from the passage to support your response.

Possible Exemplary Response:

The ideas in paragraphs 4 and 10 are related because they describe the features of the Great Horned Owl that help it to hunt at night. According to paragraph 4, "It can hear the smallest sound, like the squeak of a tiny mouse from far away" and "Its excellent vision in low light makes it the perfect night hunter." In paragraph 10, the author describes the owl's special feathers, which are like fleece, that allow it to stay silent during flight. Because of this silent flight, it can sneak up on rodents without them knowing they are about to become dinner for the owl.

Excerpt from Jumanji

by Chris Van Allsburg

1 "What's that?" Judy asked.

- 2 "It's a game," said Peter, handing her the box.
- 3 "'JUMANJI,' " Judy read from the box, " 'A JUNGLE ADVENTURE GAME.' "
- 4 "Look," said Peter, pointing to a note taped to the bottom of the box. In a childlike handwriting were the words "Free game, fun for some but not for all. P.S. Read instructions carefully."
- 5 "Want to take it home?" Judy asked.
- 6 "Not really," said Peter. "I'm sure somebody left it here because it's so boring."
- 7 "Oh, come on," protested Judy. "Let's give it a try. Race you home!" And off she ran with Peter at her heels.
- 8 At home, the children spread the game out on a card table. It looked very much like the games they already had. There was a board that unfolded, revealing a path of colored squares. The squares had messages written on them. The path started in the deepest jungle and ended up in Jumanji, a city of golden buildings and towers. Peter began to shake the dice and play with the other pieces that were in the box.
- 9 "Put those down and listen," said Judy. "I'm going to read the instructions: 'Jumanji, a young people's jungle adventure especially designed for the bored and restless.' "
- 10 "A. Player selects piece and places it in deepest jungle. B. Player rolls dice and moves piece along path through the dangers of the jungle. C. First player to reach Jumanji and yell the city's name aloud is the winner."
- 11 "Is that all?" asked Peter, sounding disappointed.
- 12 "No," said Judy, "there's one more thing, and this is in capital letters: 'D. VERY IMPORTANT: ONCE A GAME OF JUMANJI IS STARTED IT WILL NOT BE OVER UNTIL ONE PLAYER REACHES THE GOLDEN CITY.'"
- 13 "Oh, big deal," said Peter, who gave a bored yawn.

- 14 "Here," said Judy, handing her brother the dice, "you go first."
- 15 Peter casually dropped the dice from his hand.
- 16 "Seven," said Judy.
- 17 Peter moved his piece to the seventh square.
- 18 "'Lion attacks, move back two spaces,' " read Judy.
- 19 "Gosh, how exciting," said Peter, in a very unexcited voice. As he reached for his piece he looked up at his sister. She had a look of absolute horror on her face.
- 20 "Peter," she whispered, "turn around very, very slowly."
- 21 The boy turned in his chair. He couldn't believe his eyes. Lying on the piano was a lion, staring at Peter and licking his lips.
- The lion roared so loud it knocked Peter right off his chair. The big cat jumped to the floor. Peter was up on his feet, running through the house with the lion a whisker's length behind. He ran upstairs and dove under a bed. The lion tried to squeeze under, but got his head stuck. Peter scrambled out, ran from the bedroom, and slammed the door behind him. He stood in the hall with Judy, gasping for breath.
- 23 "I don't think," said Peter in between gasps of air, "that I want . . . to play . . . this game . . . anymore."
- ²⁴ "But we have to," said Judy as she helped Peter back downstairs. "I'm sure that's what the instructions mean. That lion won't go away until one of us wins the game."
- 25 Peter stood next to the card table. "Can't we just call the zoo and have him taken away?" From upstairs came the sounds of growling and clawing at the bedroom door. "Or maybe we could wait till Father comes home."
- ²⁶ "No one would come from the zoo because they wouldn't believe us," said Judy. "And you know how upset Mother would be if there was a lion in the bedroom. We started this game, and now we have to finish it."
- 27 Peter looked down at the game board. What if Judy rolled a seven? Then there'd be two lions. For an instant Peter thought he was going to cry. Then he sat firmly in his chair and said, "Let's play."

EXEMPLARY RESPONSE

How is paragraph 12 important to "Excerpt from Jumanji"? Use two details from the story to support your response.

Possible Exemplary Response:

Paragraph 12 is important because it explains the main rule of the game. Once the Jumanji game is started, you can't stop it until someone gets to the end. When a real lion appears, Peter wants to stop playing but he can't. He even said he didn't think he wanted to play the game anymore. Judy knows they must keep playing to make the lion leave. She explains to Peter that's what the instructions mean and says "That lion won't go away until one of us wins the game." That's why the rule is so important.

Possible Exemplary Response:

Peter's feelings about the game of Jumanji change throughout the story. He is bored at the beginning, scared in the middle, and determined to finish in the end. In the beginning, Peter thinks that the game will be boring, and he does not want to play it. He sounds disappointed when he says "Is that all?" and gives a bored yawn when Judy reads the directions. Even after they start playing he says, "Gosh, how exciting." in a sarcastic way.

In the middle of the story, Peter's feelings then change because he realizes what happens in the game actually happens in real life. He quickly becomes scared when Judy points out the live lion on the piano behind him. This scares him so much, he wants to quit playing the game and ignore the rule of having to finish.

His feelings change again at the end of the story when Judy convinces him he must continue playing to get rid of the lion. She tells Peter they have to keep playing and says "I'm sure that's what the instructions mean. That lion won't go away until one of us wins the game." Peter knows Judy is right, so he becomes determined to finish the game to get rid of the lion. The last line of the story states "Then he sat firmly in his chair and said "Let's play." In conclusion, Peter's feelings change throughout the story from bored, to scared, to determined. A real live lion showing up in his house during the game is one thing that causes Peter's feeling to change, and the other is Judy talking Peter into finishing the game which causes him to become determined in the end.

This response clearly introduces a topic in a manner that follows generally from the task and purpose (This is what causes Peters feelings to change). The response demonstrates grade-appropriate comprehension of the text (Peter is bored; Peter feels scared at the end of the story; Peter's feelings change by being bored to sckard; The lion mak Peter's feelings change by scaring him). The response develops the topic with relevant details throughout the essay (He gave a bored yawn; He says "Oh big deal" in a bored way; He runs in to his room and hides under his bed; Peter runs and slams his door with lion still in his room;). The response generally groups related information together and connects ideas within categories of information using linking words and phrases (This, from paragraph, and, That, from, to). The response provides a concluding statement that follows from the topic and information presented (That is how Peter's feelings chaned from the begining to the end). The response demonstrates grade-appropriate command of conventions, with occasional errors that do not hinder comprehension (Peters, knokt, with lion, sckard, hapen, chaned, begining).

In your response, be sure to

- describe how Peter feels about the game at the beginning of the story
- describe how Peter feels about the game at the end of the story
- explain what causes Peter's feelings to change

Score Point 3 (out of 4 points)

This response clearly introduces a topic in a manner that follows from the task and purpose (Judy and Peter were playing a game. First of all, at the beging of the game he feels like the game looks boring; Then, at the end of the Story Peter whats to play; The cause for Peter's feelings to chage was When the Lion came). The response demonstrates grade-appropriate comprehension of the text (feels like the game looks boring and he was disapointed in Judy because he did not want to play; Peter whats to play because then the Lion will go away if they finish; at the beganing he thought it would be boring. But then When he Saw the Lion he Just wanted it to end because if it did the Lion would of gone away). The response develops the topic with relevant details throughout the essay ("I'am Sure Somebody left it here because it was boring"; "oh, big deal Said Peter giving a board look and vawn; What if Judy rolled a Seven! Then there Would be two Lions. For in instant Peter thought he was going to cry. Then he Sat firmly in his chair an Said, let's play!"; and just wanted to finish the game). The response generally groups related information together and connects ideas within categories of information using linking words and phrases (First of all, and, because, Also, in paragraph 13, Then, at the begining, but then). The response does not provide a concluding statement. The response demonstrates gradeappropriate command of conventions, with occasional errors that do not hinder comprehension (beginning "I'am Sure Somebody, drections, whats to play, tarifed, beganing, But then When he Saw the Lion he Just, would of gone away).

Score Point 2 (out of 4 points)

This response introduces a topic in a manner that follows generally from the task and purpose (Peters feelings change in the beginning of the story to the end of the story; Peters feelings change, when the lion appears, and chases after him). The response demonstrates grade-appropriate comprehension of the text (because, in the beginning of the story Peter thinks that the game will be boring, but at the end of the story he thinks that the game is to scary, and exciting). The response partially develops the topic of the essay with the use of some textual evidence ("I'm sure someone lef it there because it's so boring."; "He stood in the hall with Judy, gasping for breath."; "Lying on the piano was a lion, staring at Peter and licking his lips."). The response exhibits some attempt to group related information together and inconsistently connects ideas using some linking words and phrases (in the begining, at the end, when, I now this because in the text it says, from, to). The response provides a concluding statement that follows from the topic and information presented (So Peters feeling change through out the story from boring to, too exciting, and this is how I now that Peters feelings change throughout the story and why). The response demonstrates emerging command of conventions, with some errors that may hinder comprehension (Peters feelings, begining, to scary, lef it, how I now that, punctuation).

Score Point 2 (out of 4 points)

This response introduces a topic in a manner that follows generally from the task and purpose (In the beginning of the story peter feels about the game that its IAME; Peter at the end of the story he is about to cry; Peter feeling change). The response demonstrates a confused comprehension of the text (because why would the other people leave it there; why peter said becuse they would not believe them; then he turned brave). The response partially develops the topic of the essay with the use of some textual evidence, some of which is irrelevant (if Judy roll's a 7 there are going to be 2 LION's but then when Peter said can we just call the zoo and see if they could pick up the lion. Judy said NO!; peter said lets Just stay here until dad comes home; Judy said but do you know how mom will be upset; Judy said if we finish the game the lions will dissaper; And also if our dad and mom come home they would get in big trouble). The response exhibits some attempt to group related information together and inconsistently connects ideas using some linking words and phrases (In the beginning, at the end, becuse, so). The response does not provide a concluding statement. The response demonstrates emerging command of conventions, with some errors that may hinder comprehension (peter feels about the game that its, Peter at the end of the story he is, becuse, capitalization, punctuation, run-on sentences).
